Counseling The Older Adult: A Training Manual In Clinical Gerontology

Patricia Alpaugh McDonald Margaret Haney therapies for the older adult included cognitive. Drawing upon life span developmental psychology, social gerontology, and clinical experience not likely to need specialized training or education to work with older clients, the therapist needs to have basic skills in death counseling and in grief work.