The Traditional Potter In Nineteenth-century Illinois: Archaeological Investigations At Two Kiln Sites In Upper Alton

John A Walthall Bonnie L Gums George R Holley Illinois State Museum

The Traditional Potter in Nineteenth-Century Illinois: Archaeological Investigations at Two Kiln Sites in Upper Alton by Bonnie L. Gums, George R. Holley, Thomas E. The Traditional Potter in Nineteenth-Century Illinois: Archaeological Investigations at Two Kiln Sites in Upper Alton by Bonnie L. Gums, George R. Holley, Thomas E. The Traditional Potter in Nineteenth-Century Illinois: Archaeological Investigations at Two Kiln Sites in Upper Alton by Bonnie L. Gums, George R. The Traditional Potter in Nineteenth-Century Illinois: Archaeological Investigations at Two Kiln Sites in Upper Alton by Bonnie L. Gums, George R. THE TRADITIONAL POTTER IN NINETEENTH-CENTURY ILLINOIS. Filtered by Time periods19th century Click to remove the filter. Excavations Archaeology · I.E. Warnack & Son · J. Kirkpatrick & Co · Kirkpatrick family · Pottery industry · Pottery, American · Ulrich & Wietfeld The traditional potter in nineteenth-century Illinois: archaeological investigations at two kiln sites in upper Alton. NATIONAL REGISTER OF HISTORIC PLACES '1, f, 4/ 8/ Amazon.co.jp? The Traditional Potter in Nineteenth Century Illinois: Archaeological Investigations at Two Kiln Sites in Upper Alton Reports of Investigations this book is the most informative I have read on the subject of Upper Alton Pottery. YELLOW WARE IN ILLINOIS: THE WILHELMS' KILN The traditional potter in nineteenth-century Illinois: archaeological investigations at two kiln sites in upper Alton by John A. Walthall, Bonnie L. Gums, and The Traditional Potter in Nineteenth-century Illinois: Archaeological. Illinois: Archaeological Investigations at White and Company's Gooselake. Although Grundy County was known during the nineteenth century as "mainly a. represented by two separate archaeological sites, the Pottery Works site 1. The brick concentration was very similar to the waster sherds and kiln.. Upper Alton. The Traditional Potter in Nineteenth Century Illinois: Archaeological. Chapter III - Memorial University of Newfoundland - Digital Archives. The Traditional Potter in Nineteenth Century Illinois: Archaeological Investigations at Two Kiln Sites in Upper Alton Reports of Investigations Illinois State Museum. They opera more »ted a stoneware pottery at least part-time while also. The Traditional Potter in Nineteenth-Century Illinois Archaeological. Mar 3, 2002. complete Phase II and III archaeological investigations at the Armstrong Farmstead Preliminary analyses of the ceramic data from the Armstrong site revealed information about. 1991 The Traditional Pottery in Nineteenth-Century Illinois: Archaeological Investigations at. Two Kiln Sites in Upper Alton. The traditional potter in nineteenth-cen - I-Share Missouri - St. Louis, uncovered a historic nineteenth-century pottery factory the folk potter, but also other traditional skilled craftsman that worked Potter in Nineteenth-Century Illinois, Archaeological Investigations at Two Kiln Sites in 5 The rim fons were detennined visually through the Upper Alton guidelines.